The Huerta Regime in Mexico

The news from Mexico indicates that the Huerta government is little more than one of the numerous factions that is rending the unfortunate republic, and that it cannot long withstand the revolts that are keeping the country in turmoil from one end to the other.

It could hardly have been otherwise. Huerta was not a popular leader. He was not demanded by the people. His seizure of power was inspired by selfishness and made possible by a series of unexpected and untoward accidents. He has none of the qualifications for pacification or organization. He does not inspire confidence. He is not even a strong man. What little force he possessed has waned until now he represents no more than one of the guerrilla bands in a free-for-all fight that is dismembering the country.

It is also announced that the flotation of a loan is by no means certain, and that the real friends of Mexico are on the verge of despair. The Huerta government is collapsing and patriotic Mexicans see no hope among the contending elements of the republic.

Roosevelt's Confession

Col. Roosevelt, the contributing editor of the Outlook, covers a wide field in his contributions to that paper. He does not hesitate to bring in his own personality whenever he feels like, nor does he exhibit a cloudy reserve, but is quite frank in his treatment of his own career, feelings, and intimacies. A recent contribution of his to that semi-religious weekly is a gossip, frank revelation of his own athletic experiences in which he, of course, makes himself the central figure and the dominating character. A part of this gossip revelation which in eastern papers is called his "confessions" is as follows:

"When obliged to live in cities, I for a long time found that boxing and wrestling enable me to get a good deal of exercise in condensed and attractive form. When I became governor, the champion middleweight wrestler of America happened to be in Albany, and I got him to come round three or four afternoons a week. But after a couple of months he had to go away, and he left a good-humored, stalwart oarsman as substitute. The oarsman turned out to know very little about wrestling. He could not even take care of himself, not to speak of me. By the end of our second afternoon, one of his long ribs had been caved in, and two of my short ribs badly damaged, and my left shoulder blade so nearly moved out of place that it creaked. When president I used to box with some of the aides as well as play single stick with General Wood. Naturally, being fond of boxing, I grew to know a good many prize fighters, and to most of them I grew genuinely attached. I have never been able to sympathize with the outcry against prize fighting. Battling Nelson was another staunch friend and he and I think alike on most questions of political industrial life. Bob Fitzsimmons was another good friend of mine. I have had for a long time the friendship of John L. Sullivan, than whom in his prime no better man stepped into the ring.

Some Astor Settlements

The wealth of the Astors has been divided to some extent, but still each side of the Astor family has a princely fortune. As to some of these fortunes and settlements made by Col. John Jacob Astor, with the holdings of Mrs. Alva Willing Astor and those of Mrs. Madeline Force Astor, the details are set forth as follows in a compilation which we find in the Pittsburgh Dispatch:

Col. John Jacob Astor, who perished in the sinking of the Titanic on April 15, 1912, left a gross estate of $85,340,919, according to the officials' schedules turned in by expert appraisers, on which the state transfer tax appraiser will base his report. They show an increase of nearly $15,000,000 over any other previous detailed account of Colonel Astor's wealth.

The appraisal makes several interesting revelations as to the nature and extent of Colonel Astor's holdings. The schedules show also for the first time the amounts of Colonel Astor's ante-nuptial settlements upon his first wife, Mrs. Alva Willing Astor, and his second wife, Mrs. Madeline Force Astor. These settlements were for life, and on the death of the beneficiaries they will go into his residuary estate.

The property turned over for the support of Mrs. Alva Willing Astor by ante-nuptial settlement has been appraised at $787,357. Mrs. Madeline Force Astor by ante-nuptial settlement was made the beneficiary of two trust funds, one appraised at $1,384,415 and the other at $311,336.

At the time of his death Colonel Astor owned absolutely property appraised at $51,258,388.

Under the will of his father, William Astor, he held for life, with the power of disposal at will, trust funds the property contained in which was appraised at $33,238,961.

The estimated expense of administering Colonel Astor's estate has been fixed at $540,000.

This, together with his personal debts, made the deductions from the taxable total of the estate $1,875,771.

The real estate schedules show substantially increases over assessed valuations on which previously published estimates of the Astor estate's value had been calculated.

WEATHER NOT TO BLAME

It's Your Condition.

"This weather simply takes the life right out of me, I can hardly drag one foot after the other," said a rundown, tired out woman, the other day.

We want to say to every such person in this vicinity, don't blame the weather, it's your condition. You need a strengthening tonic and the very best we know is Vinol which is a combination of the two most world-famous tonics, namely, the medicinal, curative elements of cod liver oil and tonic iron, for the blood.

A case has just come to our attention from Vineland, N. J. Mrs. Allen T. Godfrey says: "I never fail to say a good word for Vinol, for it restored my strength and vigor after I had been in a badly run down condition for several months. Every one who is broken in health ought to know that Vinol will build them up and make them strong."

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you.—Miners Drug Store, Tonopah, Nev.
